

Megan – Sunbury Blue Bell Rangers

Megan has worked on her Queen's Guide Award for the past four years. She continuously challenged herself, which is evident through the achievement of this Award and the work she did to complete it.

In 2016 Megan volunteered many hours of her time to help less fortunate girls and their families in Zambia, Africa – preparing and developing Days for Girls kits, travelling to Africa as part of a church mission team, teaching girls about their personal hygiene and safety, and teaching women to sew these kits in their own community. This is a cause that she is passionate about and has shared with many.

In 2017, Megan represented Australia at a Jamboree in Denmark and shared with us the opportunities that are available for Guides – to meet girls from many member countries and to share their cultures. She also represented Australia at FLAME14 in New Zealand and she has attended National Jamborees in Tasmania and Queensland.

Megan planned and conducted a camp for our unit, using her many skills in time management, programming, planning events, risk management, team work and participation in many of our Guiding Fundamentals. We had a wonderful time because of her meticulous preparation.

Megan has put 110% into her Award whilst still achieving at school and holding various positions of leadership both at Guides and school.

Meg is a loved and valuable member of our unit and the completion of her Queen's Guide Award has made a big impression on all of us. She is a fantastic role model to all in the way she lives her Guide Promise and Law, not only to our unit but to all the Guides in Hume District by her participation and commitment to Guides and community events.

Well done Megan!
