GIRL GUIDES AUSTRALIA (GGA) SOCIAL MEDIA POLICY

Girl Guides Australia and State Girl Guide Organisations recognise the rapidly changing electronic age that we live in today and the opportunities and challenges that this provides for all members. Girl Guides Australia is committed to supporting the responsible use of social media by employees, members and volunteers. To facilitate this, Girl Guides Australia Social Media Policy is reproduced in full below.

This policy is to be provided to all employees, Adult and Youth Members, and volunteers of Girl Guides Australia, its member State Girl Guide Organisations and all other groups participating in or affiliated with Guiding in Australia.

Intended use

This Policy is intended as directions to all employees, Adult and Youth Members, volunteers of Girl Guides Australia, its member State Girl Guide Organisations and all other groups participating in or affiliated with Guiding in Australia regarding the use of social networking platforms in the course of their employment or other interactions. It also provides instruction on what must not occur when using any social media whilst associated with Guiding in Australia. It clearly outlines that a breach of the policy may result in Girl Guides Australia or a State Girl Guide Organisation taking disciplinary action.

Australian laws governing the use of social media differ from State to State but all include laws concerning Defamation, Privacy, Child Protection, Discrimination, Bullying and Harassment, Copyright and Intellectual Property. There are legal consequences for individuals and Organisations that breach these laws. Social media should be used by individuals responsibly; display due consideration of age appropriateness and in accordance with the requirements of individual social media policies. Such policy requirements may change overtime and from platform to platform. As at May 2012, the minimum age to engage with Facebook is thirteen years (Facebook Policy, 2012).

Introduction to this Policy

Accessing social networking sites on Girl Guides Australia Systems

When you access Social Media using Guiding in Australia Systems a Code of Conduct will apply to any such access. In particular any use of social media on Guiding Systems may be subject to logging and monitoring. You should not have any expectations of privacy for any actions performed on social media sites using Guiding Systems.

This Policy applies to all employees, Adult and Youth Members, and volunteers of Girl Guides Australia, its member State Girl Guide Organisations and all other groups participating in or affiliated with Guiding in Australia when they participate in social networking sites whether during work hours or outside of work hours on their own computers or other electronic communication technologies.

This policy covers all current and future social media platforms. These platforms currently include, but are not limited to:

- Social networking sites: Facebook, MySpace, Foursquare, LinkedIn, Bebo and Friendster;
- Video and photo sharing websites: Flickr and YouTube;
- Micro-blogging sites: Twitter;
- Blogs: including corporate blogs and personal blogs or blogs hosted by traditional media publications;
- Forums and discussion boards; e.g. local discussion boards, Whirlpool, Yahoo! Groups or Google Groups;
- Online encyclopaedias: e.g. Wikipedia and Sidewiki; and
- Any other websites that allow individual users or companies to use simple publishing too, (together called social media).

Consequences of a breach of this Policy

Using social media in a way which breaches this Policy, the Code of Conduct, any other Girl Guides Australia policies or your obligations as an employee, Member or volunteer under the law may result in disciplinary action being taken.

Disciplinary action may include limitation or removal of access to Guiding Systems, or termination of an employee's employment or termination of Girl Guide membership or affiliation.

Use of Social Media as part of your role

If you are required by Girl Guides Australia, a State Girl Guide Organisation or other group participating in or affiliated with Guiding in Australia to participate in social media sites as part of your role within Guiding you should ensure that you clearly understand what is required of you.

You should always exercise responsibility and judgement in any material you post on social media sites where you are participating as part of any Guiding role you may have undertaken. Essentially the rules that apply to you when you are interacting face to face with people as a representative of Guiding in Australia will apply to your actions on social media – including all Girl Guides Australia and State Girl Guide Organisation's policies. Similarly the normal authorisation and approval process in relation to any content that you are posting will also apply.

Personal details (e.g. names, addresses or phone numbers) of other employees, other members (both adult and youth) or volunteers must not be published online.

You should be polite and respectful of the opinions of others at all times and refrain from posting any comments which harshly criticise or undermine posts made by others.

You should be careful of what you say about others and you should not post comments, which may be viewed as denigrating or insulting or harassing or discriminatory. Anything you would not responsibly say directly to a person should never be said or written about them using social media.

Remember the high expectations of behaviour for Guides which are embodied in the Promise and Law and Code of Conduct.

Personal use of Social Media

Use of social media

Girl Guides Australia and State Girl Guide Organisations understand that you use various social media for personal reasons on your own computers or other electronic communication technologies.

Generally what you do on your own time is your own business. However, information you provide, and statement you make, on social media sites may impact and have significant consequences for the Girl Guide community, Guiding in general, the workplace of Girl Guides Australia and State Girl Guide Organisations and their reputation. The material you post may be read by others in the Guiding community or the public at large. Once information is published online, it is essentially part of a permanent record, even if you 'remove/delete' it later or attempt to make it anonymous.

When using any social media you are responsible for your words and actions. It is your responsibility to ensure that your posts are appropriate. Use your judgement and common sense, and if there is any doubt, do not post.

When using any social media you must not:

- post images of children on social networking sites – unless you have the written authorisation of the child's parent or legal guardian for that specific image;
- use the logo of Girl Guides Australia or a State Girl Guide Organisation; or create Girl Guides Australia or a State Girl Guide Organisation branded account which could be interpreted as representing Girl Guides Australia or a State Girl Guide Organisation unless you are authorised to do so in writing;
- contribute anything which would bring you, another Member, Girl Guides Australia, a State Girl Guide Organisation, or other group participating in or affiliated with Guiding in Australia into disrepute – for example an offensive blog or photo;
- engage in any conduct that would not be acceptable in the workplace or in a Girl Guiding context – for example:

If you feel unsure about what to do in particular circumstances you should contact your state executive officer, state office, state Commissioner or senior manager of Girl Guides Australia.

This Policy is a direction.

This Policy sets out the rules which must be complied with when in social media. This Policy is a direction to you, Girl Guides Australia and the state or territory organisations and applies at both state and national level to all employees and volunteers and you must comply with this Policy. If you do not comply with this Policy, Girl Guides Australia or the state or territory organisation may take disciplinary action to and including termination of your employment or suspension of membership.
